

Abstract

A side storage box for a motorized vehicle, comprising a plastic molded load body having storage compartments formed on an exterior wall before, behind and above a wheel well opening. The outer fender is configured to enclose the storage compartments and an articulating means is used for translating the outer fender substantially vertically to allow access to said compartments.